Prosecutor, Bruce Aukerman had several questions regarding the cuts made to several of his budgets. Aukerman's Deputy Prosecutor Nina Alexander presented a handout and addressed the council regarding the Pre-Trial Diversion budget. It kept the budget at the $97,150 as the Council had put forward, but changed individual line items within the budget. A motion was made by Brent Bush and seconded by Kelly Summerville, all approved, motion carried. At this time Mr. Aukerman addressed the council about the Child Support budget. He requested the Deputy Prosecutor/Part-Time go from the council recommendation of $29,000 to $40,000. He explained that this budget gets reimbursed from the state at a rate of 66%. After deliberating with the council, it was decided to cut office supplies by $1,000, cut postage by $1,000 and cut travel by $500. The council will add the $2,500 to the current recommended $29,000 to make the salary $31,500. A motion was made by William Rennels and seconded by Martin Brown, all in favor, motioned carried. Aukerman's final budget discussion was regarding the line item of Investigation under his Prosecutor General Fund budget. Aukerman originally asked for $50,000 and the council had cut it to $25,000.

There was some question on statute between Aukerman and Scott Craig, Council Attorney. After a lengthy discussion, a motion was made by Rick Weir to accept a compromise of $45,000, it was seconded by William Rennels, Martin Brown opposed, motion carried.

- b. Ronald Dunavan, SR, and Doug Hess of the Economic Development questioned the council on the reasons behind their budget cuts. Ashley James explained how much revenue was incoming yearly against what was being asked to spend. The expenditure request outweighed what was incoming. James also went over what the accounts in the Economic Development are designed for, specifically the 40000 funds are for capital outlays and not services. Also, the Main Street line item is not for making donations. A new housing project in Cayuga was also discussed, specifically the loan and repayment methods. Doug Hess also mentioned other possible 2023 projects.
- c. Vermillion County Solid Waste Management 2023 Budget of $12,027 was presented. A motion by Rick Weir and a second by Brent Bush to approve the budget was made. All in favor, motion carried.
